Decision and payment terms

- This is a PayPal sandbox hackathon prototype, not a licensed escrow service. Explicit demo holds are simulated ledger entries. No real-world funds move in the demo.
- The seller must accept the plan before the buyer can authorize funding. A capture requires explicit buyer approval or both parties accepting the exact same mediated proposal.
- The review target is 3 days after submission. A missed target marks an overdue review; there is no automatic payment release.
- Advisory reviews compare written delivery claims with criteria. File contents and linked work are not inspected. Each party must independently inspect the actual work.
- A final capture credits the configured PayPal sandbox merchant. Seller payouts are not implemented. A partial capture leaves the remaining authorized amount uncaptured; this is not a refund of a previously captured payment.
- Real sandbox authorizations can expire or become uncollectible under PayPal rules. Prototype state alone is not proof of a successful capture. Uncertain payment results need reconciliation.
